Preface

Metropolitan Areas 1994, Chapter XI, provides an historical review of changes in the MAs since they were first defined in 1949. The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and its predecessor, the Bureau of the Budget, have defined MAs for statistical purposes each decade, except during the period between 1977 and 1981 when the Office of Federal Statistical Policy and Standards, Department of Commerce, was responsible for MA definitions. On June 30, 1993, the MAs for the 1990's were announced based on standards published by OMB in the Federal Register on March 30, 1990 and data from the 1990 decennial census.

Although OMB defines MAs for statistical purposes, other agencies of the Federal government frequently use these definitions for programmatic purposes. On May 5, 1994, the Director of OMB issued a memorandum clarifying the "Use of Metropolitan Area Definitions." This memorandum states that "[i]n cases where there is no statutory requirement and an agency elects to use the MA definitions in a nonstatistical program, it is the sponsoring agency's responsibility to ensure that the definitions are appropriate for such use."

Work on Metropolitan Areas 1994 was undertaken principally at the Bureau of the Census. James D. Fitzsimmons of the Population Division led this effort; he also serves as Secretary of the Federal Executive Committee on Metropolitan Areas (FECMA). Donald E. Starsinic, Richard L. Forstall, and Mary T. Bush contributed to the preparation of this chapter.

This special preprint of Chapter XI, Part A, has been issued for use in conjunction with the November 29-30, 1995, Conference on New Approaches to Defining Metropolitan and Nonmetropolitan Areas, sponsored by the Council of Professional Associations on Federal Statistics (COPAFS). The complete volume Metropolitan Areas 1994 will be published shortly.

Chapter XI

Changes in Metropolitan Areas, 1950-1994

Part A: MSAs, CMSAs, and PMSAs (and the predecessor SMAs and SMSAs), 1950-1994

Listed here are the current MSAs, CMSAs, and PMSAs, as well as former metropolitan areas, along with their component counties and New England cities and towns, and details of definition history.

MSAs, CMSAs, and PMSAs were first defined effective June 30, 1983. Preceding them as official metropolitan areas were SMAs (1950-1959) and SMSAs (1959-1983); the titles and definitions of these two historical sets of areas are included in this list.

The titles of current MAs appear in the "Area and Definition" column in all-capital letters. Titles shown for former areas in this column are those that were in effect at the time of area deletion; these titles are in capital and lower-case letters and do not include MA type. Italics identify current components within each current MA. Former components of current MAs, and all components of former MAs, appear in capital and lower-case roman letters. State abbreviations accompany component names in those cases where the MA is in more than one state.

The term "New area" appears in the "Action" column to show when a metropolitan area was first defined for a given population center. Following that term, within parentheses, is the full title of the area at the time of first definition if different from the title shown in the first column. Title changes also are noted in the "Action" column. When titles of current MAs appear in this column, they do so in all-capital letters. Items in italics pertain to components of current MAs.

Entries for PMSAs appear indented under their respective CMSAs. Each CMSA entry presents (in narrative form) the components of that CMSA; the components are listed again with greater detail (in tabular form) under the appropriate PMSAs. (All territory within a CMSA is also within some PMSA).

Entries for individual MAs can extend across page breaks.
